Dear Friends of Quantum Leap,

We, at the Quantum Leap Exhibit Program, proudly welcome you to our 23rd community event. Here, on the evening of May 27th at 7 PM, guests can mingle and explore student work or participate in discussions on issues facing our community.

This year, as in years in the past, our students have literally been immersed in their education. For many, it's been a journey of great difficulty and challenges but also of great opportunity, growth, and reward. From participating in the Sababa Project (a Bennington College course offered here at Mount Anthony) to preparing and attending our field trips, from meeting (or not meeting) deadlines to building our exhibits, perhaps the most valuable lessons our group learned were how to operate and support each other as a team, how to acquire skills and develop knowledge, and how to bring a project to fruition.

We're always trying to teach students the value of an education, and why it is essential to grasp the opportunities that are offered and make the most of them. However, there is no greater teacher than experience itself, and this year that is what they each received. Thank you to all who helped to make this possible.

Thank you for your efforts and contributions, and we welcome you to attend our event.

Sincerely,
The Students and Staff of the Quantum Leap Exhibit Program 2015-
2016
